How do I choose the best locker room seating?

Your locker room seating and amenities will add comfort and functionality to your locker room. You can choose from solid natural wood benches, metal stools with wood tops, plastic laminate seats, and more. It's important that your locker room seating matches or complements your lockers. You must also have at least 1 ADA compliant locker room bench.

How to plan a locker room layout?

Maximum utilization of your locker room space WITHOUT jeopardizing comfort and usability is the main goal when planning your locker room layout. You need to ensure that there is a proper flow of traffic and the lockers and seating do not prevent your patrons from easily getting around the locker room.

Should locker rooms be semi-private?

If your guests will be changing clothes in your locker room, the locker configurations should also allow for semi-private areas in both wet and dry areas, without limiting the ease of getting to each area.

How far off the floor should a locker be ADA compliant?

ADA compliant lockers are no more than 15 inches off the floor, have a surrounding clear floor space of 30"x48" minimum, and storage spaces (shelves, coat hangers, etc.) are located at a height of 9" minimum and 48" maximum from the finished floor.

Is your locker room ADA compliant?

Another thing to consider is handicap accessibility. In order to comply with the guidelines of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) for accessibility and design, you must allow 48 inches of space around your accessible lockers. Check for updates to ADA guidelines to make sure your locker room layout is ADA compliant.
