Updated on: September 19, 2024 / 5:50 PM EDT / CBS New York NEW YORK - The Legal Aid Society has filed a lawsuit accusing five solar panel companies of deceptive business practices and fraud. Lawyers say the companies work in tandem to target seniors and low-income residents with misleading advertising and miscalculations of cost.

Who sued vision solar?

Vision Solar was also sued by Connecticut Attorney General William Tongin March after the office received more than a dozen consumer complaints. Tong said his office is investigating numerous complaints against the solar industry's sales tactics, but Vision Solar's practices are "far and away the worst"; they had seen.

Why is Minnesota suing a solar loan company?

Minnesota is suing firms who finance solar power systems for homes. The case alleges that four lending companies deceived customers with hidden, upfront fees in exchange for lower interest rates. "It's misleading people about the price of the system and misleading people about the price of financing," says Assistant Attorney General Welle.

Are customer complaints a problem in the solar industry?

Customer complaints against the country's residential rooftop solar industry have increased dramatically in recent years. One-star ratings on Solar Reviews increased more than 1,000% since 2018. Across the country, prosecutors are investigating high-pressure sales tactics and misleading financing arrangements.

Are people deceived by solar financing companies?

We don't want people deceived, though," says Adam Welle, a lawyer with the Minnesota Attorney General's Office who is pursuing a case against solar financing companies. Beyond the industry's reputation, real people - many of them already financially vulnerable - have been hurt.

Why did the New Mexico AG Sue Vivint Solar?

Similarly, in March 2018, the New Mexico AG sued Vivint Solar for its claimed unfair and unconscionable business practices around the same 20-year leases. There, the AG accused Vivint of clouding titles to consumers' homes, fraud and racketeering in connection with its residential solar power purchase agreements and solar equipment.
