When is the best time to buy solar panels?

Just like buying a house, solar is a long-term investment and there's more to be lost than gained by trying to time the market. The best time to buy solar panels is when you are ready to make an investment in your future. However, if you are trying to choose a time of year to start your search, fall and winter provide some unique advantages.

When is the best time to go solar?

Fall and winter are slower for the opposite reasons - less sunlight, little to no A/C, and lower energy bills. But that's exactly what makes it the best time to go solar, especially for proactive customers who want to set themselves up for peak summer bills. Think of shopping for solar panels like going out for breakfast.

When should you start stockpiling solar panels?

By installing solar panels in the spring or at the beginning of summer, you can begin stockpiling solar credits early to offset the coming winter months. The Federal Investment Tax Credit (ITC), state tax incentive, and tax rebate programs have rollover and cut-off dates, most of which occur at the end of the year.

Should you buy a home with solar panels?

Help with your home value: If you plan to sell your home down the line, having home solar panels can be a major perk to buyers and can help increase your home's value. Key step toward going green: Since solar is a renewable resource, you can shrink your carbon footprint.

Is investing in solar panels a good decision?

Solar panels have become more efficient, have lower temperature coefficients, provide higher power outputs, and come with better warranties compared to just five years ago. This continuous advancement in solar technology may make solar panels a good investment.

How long do PPA solar panels last?

With PPAs, the solar panels are owned by a solar company or developer that installs and maintains them, with you paying a set rate for energy consumed that is often less than standard utility rates. This arrangement can last for up to 25 years or more and possibly be renegotiated.
